COFFEY FAILS TO APPEAR

In His Suit for Division of the Profits of the Nassau Trolley Deal.

Former Senator Michael J. Coffey did not put in an appearance either in person or by counsel when his action against Patrick H. Flynn, the estate of Hugh McLaughlin, former Senator John McCarty and James Sheehan was called for trial before Supreme Court Justice Marston in Brooklyn.

The suit was based on an alleged undertaking by Coffey and the defendants to sell their interest in the old Nassau Electric Railroad to the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company.

The deal was carried out as alleged by Flynn, who was last seen alive on Sept. 16. He had been acting peculiarly for some time before he disappeared. It is supposed that he must have drowned himself on the south shore of Staten Island, and that his body was carried out past Sandy Hook.

Millions of mischief

By HEADON HILL.

Cloth. 12mo. Illustrated. $1.50.

Have you read "MILLIONS OF MISCHIEF"? That is the question that every novel reader is, or ought to be asking just now. If you have not read it, buy, borrow, or get it somehow AT ONCE. No better reason is offered off-hand for this eager recommendation than what a school-boy might give, that it is a "ripping" good tale, which, if you once take up, you cannot put down again; or, if you like, I will adopt the jargon of more critical eulogy and say that it stirs your blood and sets your pulses dancing, that it brings your heart into your mouth and makes you quiver and shiver with excitement over the hero's adventures, that it opens out a world of experience and introduces you to a crowd of odd and interesting people, that the whole story gives the impression of having been composed at a white heat, of having been written with an enthusiasm and vim that will inevitably communicate themselves to you as you devour its pages.
